1 procedures for hosting events on campus. Since joining UWPD, I have participated in providing 2 security at hundreds of events.

3         6. For events organized by RSOs, UWPD is forwarded information from the Student 4 Activities Office, which is part of the Office of Special Programs. This information includes basic 5 facts about the event, including the date, time, location, and type, and identifies whether the event
6 is open to the public and whether alcohol will be served. UWPD takes this information, along 7 with other information gained from the event sponsors, as the starting point for its security analysis
8 and security planning.

10         7. In addition to the information provided by the student group, UWPD typically 11 consults open-source websites, such as social media websites, to corroborate or clarify information 12 about the event, particularly the expected size. Moreover, UWPD regularly consults with the 13 Seattle Police Department, Federal Bureau of Investigation, and other local, state, and federal law
14 enforcement agencies when gathering information used to determine potential threats and security 15 needs.

17         8. In reviewing the security needs for any given event, a variety of factors are taken 18 into account, including the date, time, location, anticipated size of event, whether the event is open 19 to the public, whether past events sponsored by the same group produced security concerns. When 20 a guest speaker is invited, UWPD also assesses whether past events of the guest speaker produced 21 security concerns.

23         9. For the planned College Republicans Patriot Prayer event estimated security costs 24 after considering:

- 25             • The date and time of the event (a Saturday, for three hours in the afternoon)

1 I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of Washington that the 2 foregoing is true and correct to the best of my knowledge.
